

The Ocean: Water, no (Plastik-) Trash..!!

This garbage was washed up by the sea on this stretch of beach. We collected it and placed it here.

If the people don't fundamentally change the way they handling with their garbage soon, then the future of mankind will look like this (see photo)..!!

Do you want that..??

Fact 1:

Water is life. The oceans are oxygen donors and regulate the earth's climate. In addition, they are the direct livelihood for many millions of people (e.g. for fishermen). A life without intact oceans is not possible for mankind.

Fact 2:

Currently, every minute, new (plastic-) garbage from the quantum of a truck load ends up in the oceans worldwide. That is more than 10 million tons of new (plastic-) garbage per year. If this continues, in a few years there will be as much garbage in the oceans as there are fish. The oceans will be irretrievably destroyed, with all the consequences for people.

So: People, change the way you handle your garbage from now on..!!

1. Reduce your waste volume..!!
2. Absolutely prevents rubbish from getting into nature and into waters..!!

Do something for your future..!! Now..!!

"The Ocean: Water, no (Plastic-) Trash" is a international project of the project group World Nature Environment Protection (WNEP), in cooperation with the responsible government authorities. Further information at: www.project-wnep.org and www.protect-asia.org.
